Sculpting Sound with Devon Turnbull

Meet The Artist

With hand-built, minimalist construction, Devon Turnbull's immersive audio systems realise the full presence of sound

"Analogue formats like vinyl offer something irreplaceable — not just in sound quality, but in ritual and intention.

The Listening Room is designed to encourage deep listening, connection, and a sense of calm — something I think we need more of, especially in urban environments."

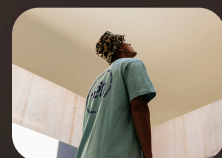

Also known as OJAS, Devon Turnbull is a New York and Tokyo-based audio engineer globally celebrated for his sound systems and immersive sonic environments. Devon's equipment brings realistic, natural sound to the listener, the product of two decades of experimentation, engineering and exploration in the audio underground.

The Listening Room by OJAS is located on Patina Osaka's top floor. The space hosts the daily "Morning Soundscapes" experience for guests, and is also available for private booking
